

COVID 19 Quarantine Delays Harlin's Spring Art Show

The image is a promotional poster for the Harlin Museum's 2020 Spring Art Show Competition. It features a background of a painting depicting white flowers with pink centers and yellow accents. Overlaid on the left side is a black rectangular box with white text. At the top, the words "HARLIN MUSEUM'S" are written in a light orange, sans-serif font. Below this, the main title "2020 Spring Art Show Competition" is written in a white, elegant cursive script. Underneath the title, the dates "April 2nd - 26th" are displayed in a bold, black, sans-serif font. At the bottom of the poster, a black horizontal bar contains the words "TEMPORARILY POSTPONED" in large, bold, white, sans-serif capital letters.

2020 Spring Art Show Competition

April 2nd - 26th

TEMPORARILY POSTPONED

Due to the current guidelines in effect for public safety during the coronavirus/COVID 19 quarantine, we are temporarily postponing the Harlin Museum's 2020 Spring Art Show until we are safely able to open to the public. As soon as safety protocol allows for public gatherings, we will return to our calendar of shows & exhibits as planned. This means that we will NOT be accepting entries for the Spring ART Show today.

Please watch our website and social media pages for further announcements regarding rescheduled entry dates and show dates—and also be sure to sign up for our informational emails regarding future museum events! To sign up, simply send an email to info@harlinmuseum.com with the subject line "Add Me" to receive future notifications about museum events, exhibits, and workshops.

We ask that everyone stay safe and please look after one another during this difficult time for our community—and continue to allow art to inspire you. We look forward to seeing what you've been working on while you've been at home!
